

3rd September 2016

I carried out an inspection to both hives earlier this week and they are doing very well: the original hive doesn't have much activity but is absolutely full of honey and plenty of brood, so I don't have any real concerns, but I'm going to be keeping my eye on it over the next couple of weeks.

The other hive has much activity, bees rushing in and out and plenty of stores and brood. So again, I have no concerns with that hive.

As we go into Autumn I will be feeding them from the end of September, & hopefully ensuring their survival over winter.